Pay Hike Too Low, CIO Says

Union Accepts GE's Proposal

Leaders of the CIO United Electrical Workers last night rejected a six per cent wage increase proposed by the Westinghouse Electric corporation for 75,000 employes, including about 5,000 in Mansfield.

At the same time, they accepted an eight per cent wage increase for 125,000 employes of the General Electric company.

James Mantles, a CIO union representative, asserted Westinghouse was "handing out a measley proposition with one hand and taking it back with another."

Leaders of the two other unions recognized by Westinghouse —the AFL Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Federation of Westinghouse Independent Unions—offered no comment today on the six per cent offer.

'FAR BELOW' OTHERS

Edward J. Matthews, international CIO union representative, said the Westinghouse offer would give workers "an increase in take-home pay far below increases" granted by other electrical manufacturers.

The rejection of the Westinghouse offer was announced in Pittsburgh a few hours after the company offered it. The company said the offer, which also includes paid holidays for hourly-paid employes, actually amounted to an 8.4 per cent hourly increase.

The proposal called for putting into effect what the Westinghouse company termed an expanded pension and insurance program, which, it said, would cost the company four cents an hour per employe.

Mantles said the six per cent offer actually amounted to only $2 to $4 a week for employes as contrasted to the General Electric offer which would provide from $3.60 to $8 extra pay weekly.

OFFSET BY TAKE-OUT

He contended that even the $2 to $4 increases would be wiped out if the company insisted on taking out 2½ to 5 per cent for the pension plans.

The settlement with General Electric brought to an end 17 weeks of negotiations between the union and the company.

The wage boost, which the company says will add nine to more than 15 cents hourly to the workers' current average pay of $55.99 weekly, becomes effective immediately. The accord came three days after the company advanced its wage offer.

A 100-member union conference board, representing members in 97 GE plants across the country, voted to recommend acceptance by the locals. The union said a membership vote approving the agreement is expected by June 25.

The company said the contract, subject to ratification, would extend to March 31, 1950, with one reopening of wage talks during the period.

Tire Union Wins Raise

CLEVELAND—(UP)—The Firestone Tire & Rubber company and the United Rubber Workers (CIO) today signed their first master contract, including an 11-cent hourly wage increase for 23,000 employes.

The contract and wage settlement covers employes in Firestone's plants at Akron, O., Memphis, Tenn., Pottstown, Pa., Fall River, Mass., Los Angeles, Cal., Noblesville and Newcastle, Ind., and Des Moines, Ia.

The wage increase will become effective Monday, bringing the Firestone workers' average hourly pay to $1.65.

In a joint statement, company and union officials said their collective bargaining agreement was the first master contract between the two parties. It came after eight weeks of negotiation.

The contract, which expires March 1, 1950, includes provisions for dues check-off, vacations, seniority, severance pay, pay for holidays not worked, overtime and arbitration procedures.

The contract also includes a clause permitting either the company or the union to reopen the wage question on 60 days notice after April 14, 1949.

FINALLY GETS DEGREE

TOLEDO—(AP)—Arthur J. Wieland, executive vice president of Willys-Overland motors, today gets his university degree in business administration — 31 years late. Wieland left Ohio State university in his senior year to become a World War I soldier. Last fall he enrolled in University of Toledo night school.

Congress Defended By Taft

PHILADELPHIA — (UP) Sen. Robert A. Taft rested his defense of the 80th Congress today with an appeal to the people to give it a vote of confidence by electing a President that will carry out its program.

Taft, the Republican policy-maker in the Senate and one of the leading candidates for the GOP presidential nomination, spoke three times in defense of Congress against President Truman's charges that it was the "worst" in history.

He accused Mr. Truman of "blackguarding Congress at every whistle station in the west . . . for the simple reason that Congress happens to differ with him in his whole philosophy of government."

Taft called Mr. Truman "the gallivanting President" and assailed him for traveling about the country in a 15-car special train at the taxpayers' expense.

Taft made three speeches and the President was his special target in all of them. He spoke first at a luncheon at the Union League club. Then he repeated his charges at Junior Chamber of Commerce dinner. Last night condensed both talks into a 15-minute radio address.

LACK OF UNDERSTANDING

There is no use of Congress reconvening after the major political conventions when it "faces the vetoes of a man who does not understand the difference between American principles of free government and communism . . ." Taft said.

He blasted the president's legislative program, saying it would create a nation "completely regimented, choked by taxation, under the complete domination of centralized bureaucracy and arbitrary union leadership."

He said the president's spending program would boost the federal budget from $40,000,000,000 to $60,000,000,000.

"He (the President) is traveling through the country promising every group and every state and every community money from the federal treasury to support its favorite subjects . . ." Taft said. "Today he is deriding Congress because it has some sense of responsibility to the taxpayers which he entirely lacks."

Ship Strike Threat Hit

Way Cleared For Injunction

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A presidential fact-finding board today cleared the way for the government to seek an injunction against the threatened nationwide maritime strike by reporting that it would tie up the entire shipping industry.

The board said that "if the status quo can be continued, real and sincere collective bargaining may finally avoid the disruption."

Six maritime unions have threatened to call their 100,000 members out on strike at midnight Tuesday unless their contract demands are met. A Taft-Hartley law injunction would prohibit the walkout for 80 days.

An administration spokesman indicated the White House would ask the justice department to seek a federal court injunction against the strike either today or Monday. The government will contend that a maritime strike would "imperil the national health or safety."

The injunction probably will be sought in New York, San Francisco and Cleveland where the unions have their headquarters.

The fact-finding panel delivered its report to the White House yesterday. It was made public today.

Basis of the controversy, the fact-finders reported, is the impact of the Taft-Hartley law on established hiring and employment practices in the shipping industry.

Ship owners contend that the hiring halls operated by the unions are a form of closed shop outlawed by the Taft-Hartley act.

5 Gang Members Face OSR Terms

City to Move Clocks Up At 12:01 A. M. on June 20

Solicitor Clarifies Ordinance

Courthouse to Follow Mansfield's Example

Mansfield will go on daylight saving time at 12:01 a. m., June 20, moving its clocks ahead an hour, City Solicitor C. J. Kalbfleisch told The News-Journal today.

Kalbfleisch, attending a convention in Toledo, said in a telephone interview that the ordinance voted by council Thursday night would become law 10 days after passage.

Since Mayor Roy W. Vaughn declined to sign or veto the time bill, there was a question about when the measure would become effective.

Meanwhile it appeared today that most of Richland county will follow Mansfield's example in setting the clocks ahead.

Developments in the long-standing "which time shall we have" argument included:

1—Announcement that the county courthouse would operate on daylight time when Mansfield adopts it, probably June 20.

2—Decision by Shelby officials to call a special meeting to decide whether to adopt daylight time.

3—Bellville Councilman R. R. Beal said Bellville would follow Mansfield's action.

FOLLOW RELUCTANTLY

County Commissioners John W. Selby and Guy Stewart said the county offices would adopt the new time because "there's nothing left for us to do."

They said they preferred to retain standard time.

Beal said a Bellville council meeting has been called Monday night to discuss the time issue, but he said council had considered the proposal and agreed to follow Mansfield's time plan.

Mayor William Norris, of Shelby, said he would contact members of the Shelby city council to determine whether or not a special meeting should be called to decide when and if Shelby would go on fast time.

"Since the Mansfield city council approval of daylight saving time will go into effect June 20, we will have to hold a special meeting," Mayor Norris said, "since the next regular council meeting is scheduled for June 21."

Observers Check Truce

CAIRO —(INS)— United States and Swedish military observers rushed today to the Syrian frontier to investigate reports of continued violation of the truce agreement.

Dispatches from Haifa said that Swedish Colonel Erik Delaval is flying to Damascus to investigate from the Syrian side reports of unchecked warfare.

At the same time several U. S. observers were reported travelling overland from Haifa to investigate an Israeli claim that Arabs attacked the settlement of Ein Gev, on the eastern shores of the Sea of Galilee, not far from the Syrian frontier.

The first U.N. efforts to halt fighting since the cease-fire took effect came as Jews and Arabs charged each other with violations of the agreement. Major battles, however, appeared to have been halted.

U.N. Mediator Count Bernadotte ordered investigation of charges made by both sides.

Lightning Starts Fire

Lightning struck electric wiring leading to the home of C. A. Sherman, 17 North Willis avenue, about noon today, starting a fire in the meter box in the home.

Sherman extinguished the blaze before firemen arrived. Damage was slight. No one was injured.

A series of brief thundershowers last night and today gave Mansfield area gardens and fields another soaking.

The rain, coupled with humid weather, boosted the growth of vegetables and farm crops.

More scattered showers were forecast for tonight and tomorrow. Cooler weather is in prospect for tomorrow.

Set Up Their Own Government

16 Youths Leave For Boys' State

Sixteen high school junior students from the Mansfield area left early today to attend the 12th Buckeye Boys' State at the Ohio Wesleyan university in Delaware.

They were driven to Delaware where they will be assigned to dormitory quarters by members of the Mansfield American Legion post who are sponsoring the boys from this area. They will be in session 10 days.

Boys' State is the Ohio American Legion's annual school of practical government. More than 850 high school juniors from throughout Ohio will, upon arrival at the university, become members of the two mythical political parties, and will be assigned to 17 cities and three counties.

Nearly every body will be a candidate for public office and by Sunday the campus will be covered with home-made political signs and banners. General elections will be held Monday.

INAUGURATE GOVERNOR

The 12th boy governor will be inaugurated and his cabinet and Supreme court sworn in at ceremonies that evening.

Gov. Thomas J. Herbert will address the Boys' State members and Justice Charles B. Zimmerman of the Ohio Supreme court will administer the oath to the new governor.

Each day at the Boys' State will be equivalent to three months in regular state, county or city government.

3 Properties Up for Sale

Sealed bids will be opened at 1 p. m. Monday for the sale of three downtown Mansfield properties.

Transfer of the three parcels would constitute the largest real estate transaction in the city's history.

The Citizens Savings and Loan building at the corner of North Main and Third street, along with the Kevey store property adjacent to it at 56 North Main, and the large lot at the northwest corner of Mulberry and West Fourth streets have been offered for sale by the directors of The Citizens Savings and Loan which is now in the process of liquidation.

The directors are not bound to sell on the basis of bids received Monday, but there was general expectation that a part if not all of the property will be sold to Monday's bidders.

Lamb, FCC Hit Again In Congress

Hebert Jabs Anew At Board's Action

The Federal Communications commission's failure to give any explanation of its preferential treatment of Edward Lamb, red-tinged Toledo lawyer, is under fresh attack in Congress.

In remarks appearing in the Congressional Record, Rep. F. Edward Hebert, Louisiana Democrat who assailed Lamb on the House floor last May 5, blasted at the FCC again this week.

Pointing to the numerous times that Lamb's record has been cited to the commission and the repeated criticism leveled at the board for its favoritism to Lamb, Hebert describes the lack of FCC explanation in these words:

"The silence of the Sphinx is a deafening bedlam of noise compared to the silence of the Federal Communications commission."

CITES NEW QUESTIONS

Hebert also read into the Congressional record an editorial published last week in the News-Journal, which raised questions of whether Lamb now is seeking to obtain radio interests for future sale to other concerns, or whether the Toledoan's sale of a Youngstown radio interest represented an effort to change merely the names on an application, while interests continued unchanged.

"Just what is the weird connection between Mr. Lamb and the Federal Communications commission?" Hebert's statement demands.

"I am going to keep on asking that question until I get a satisfactory answer," he added.

BLAST FAVORITISM

Hebert also reviewed his earlier assertions before the House of Representatives, declaring that:

"Mr. Lamb has a record of Communist activities which sends its malodorous odor to the gates of heaven itself," and asserting that in Lamb's case "it would appear that association and connection with Communists and communist-front organizations was the real open sesame to favor by the Federal Communications commission."

"For Mr. Lamb they (the FCC) roll out the red carpet. For Americans who have stood the test of loyalty to the government, they keep the door closed," Hebert declared.

Lamb received five radio broadcasting permits in two weeks last March, including one for a station in Mansfield.

Coal Parley Tieup Ended

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Soft coal wage negotiators hinted today that the week-long deadlock in discussions of a new 1948 contract has been broken.

Charles O'Neill, operator spokesman, and John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president, told reporters after a two-hour negotiating session this morning that the conferences will resume at 3 p. m., Monday.

In contrast to the other days of the week, both men declined to discuss any details of the negotiating session. In the past, this has usually meant that some progress had been made.

O'Neill was asked if the parties discussed a whole new contract.

"Yes, we got into that," he replied.

"Did you discuss pensions," he was asked.

"A lot," O'Neill replied.

Lewis then said to O'Neill that "I thought we were to make a joint statement that we would resume negotiations Monday at 3 p. m."

Both men then refused to answer further questions and walked away together.

SPEBSQSA Grand Finale Tonight

Five Seek Harmony Prize

OKLAHOMA CITY — (AP) — This is a story that should be put to music—of June and moon and everything that finds melodic expression in barber shop quartet singing.

Because tonight, the five finest quartets in the nation will raise their harmonizing voices in the songs that men sing when good fellows get together.

It's the grand finale of the tenth annual convention of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

And, incidentally, that celebrated Pittsburgh smog can't be so bad for the voice after all.

Two of the top five quartets chosen from 40 regional champions are from the Smoky City —the Pittsburghers and the Westinghouse quartet.

The other three medalists are the Mid-State Four from Chicago, the Four Shades of Harmony from Terre Haute, Indiana, and the Clef Dwellers, who dwell in Oakland county, Michigan.

These five were picked before an audience of 4,500 last night from 15 finalists, who were named from the 40 starters.

U. S. Retains Wightman Cup

LONDON — (AP) — The United States retained the Wightman cup today when Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., defeated Mrs. Jean Bostock, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5. It was the fourth U. S. triumph in the seven-match international tennis event.

The Americans won by 7-0 score in the two other meetings since World War II.

Fate Rests On Value of 2 Chickens

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(INS)—The Jefferson county court today has a question to decide.

"How much are two chickens worth?"

The fate of a 73-year-old man whose $21 a month pension allegedly was insufficient to feed him, hangs on the value of the chickens.

Pro Tem Judge Franklin S. Fitch heard the defendant, James Stinnett, admit stealing the chickens he was carrying in a bag when arrested, and mused that the minimum sentence would be two years in the penitentiary if the chickens totaled more than $2 in value.

OB Employe Drowns In Reservoir

Falls From Boat With Companions

Tragedy abruptly ended a happy boating party late yesterday at the Pleasant Hill dam reservoir, 16 miles southeast of Mansfield.

Andrew Oswalt, 39, of North Liberty, an employe of the Ohio Brass company of Mansfield, was drowned when a power boat overturned. His companions, Edwin Mellott, 42, of Butler, and Mellott's son, Larry, 10, were rescued by other boaters.

Mellott said he thought Oswalt was a good swimmer and expressed belief the weight of his clothing nullified his efforts to keep afloat.

Deputy Sheriff Gilbert Bishop of Ashland county said Mellott reported that Oswalt lost his balance when he stood up while changing his position and the boat overturned, throwing all three into the water.

BODY RECOVERED

Miles McCarthy, permanent patrolman at the lake, directed the search for the body. It was recovered at 7:30 p. m., two hours after the drowning, by Luther Zody and Leland Darling, both of Perrysville.

Ashland county coronor, A. D. Lewis, returned a verdict of accidential death by drowning.

Oswalt was a molder for the Ohio Brass company.

His body was taken to the People's funeral home in Loudonville and then removed to the Snyder funeral home in Butler.

Reasons For Move Obscure

Threatens Food Crisis In City

BULLETIN

BERLIN — (AP)— Russians agreed today to restore traffic to Berlin, U. S. and British officials announced. An American official said the Russians consented to discuss the whole question of Berlin freight at a special meeting Monday.

BERLIN — (AP) — The Russians blocked all food and coal shipments by rail to the 2,000,000 Germans and 25,000 Americans, French and Britons in the western sectors of Berlin today.

U. S. and British officials said it was too early to say whether the order, in effect since last night, was aimed at driving the western powers out of the city, or was just another manifestation of Soviet red tape aimed at making travel more difficult.

Many in the western sectors viewed the move as the newest phase of the battle of Berlin. If the stoppage is permanent, it will be much more serious than the Soviet restrictive measures in Berlin which raised an east-west crisis last April.

The Allies circumvented that crisis by flying in passengers and supplies, but it would be impossible to fly in enough supplies to meet the needs of the 2,000,000 Germans in Berlin dependent on the western powers for food and heat.

British officials said the Russians contended they had to embargo freight shipments into Berlin because the city was congested. The British retorted that they were not aware of any congestion and demanded that the embargo be lifted immediately.

TRAINS STOPPED

Trains were stopped at the Helmstedt-Marienborn control point on the border of the British and Soviet occupation zones. This was the point where the Russians in April ordered trains stopped for inspections by Soviet officials before passing through the Soviet zone of Germany to Berlin. The four-power Berlin enclave is an island well within the Soviet zone of occupation.

An American military government official said Soviet-sponsored German communists are attempting to foment strike waves in the American and British sectors of Berlin, ostensibly to protest western recognition of anti-communist leadership of Berlin's trade union federation.

The Russians, who rejected British demands to surrender the Berlin radio station situated in the British zone of Berlin, announced a new propaganda broadcast from the station, beamed to western Germany and designed to give what the Russians call a "true picture of developments in the Russian zone as well as information about their own zones which they might not know."

Ship Sinking Fatal to 200

AALBORG, Denmark — (AP) — Some 200 persons were believed today to have drowned in the sinking of the passenger steamer Kjoebenhavn. A check was being made to find out the exact number.

The 1,668-ton vessel hit a war mine and went down in 10 minutes early yesterday in the Kattegat near the end of a trip from Copenhagen to this port 110 miles to the northwest.

The United Steamship company of Copenhagen, which owned her, listed 261 survivors—passengers and crew, many suffering from severe wounds or exposure. Some of those rescued later died.

How many others were aboard was not known. There first were believed to have been 400, but later indications were that about 450 was more likely.

The only full passenger list went down with the ship. Some passengers did not book passage at Copenhagen until they had gone aboard.

Jewish Congregation Observes Feast of Weeks

Confirmation Rites Mark Pentecost

By NITA BRANSON, N-J Church Editor

The holiday of Pentecost or Shavuos, Feast of Weeks, which members of the B'nai Jacob congregation will celebrate this week end, will be marked with the confirmation of 10 children by Rabbi Moshe Goldblum.

The confirmation services will take place Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in the Temple Emanuel, Cook road. Children of the class will be taken into full membership of the congregation of Israel and join in vows, dedicating themselves to keep the laws of Israel.

The 10 include Marcia Ann Freeman, Hermine June Klein, Thomas Plaut and Gay Rosenberg of Mansfield; Randell and Rolinda Barnett of Ashland, Muriel Lee Epstein and Richard M. Erlanger of Mt. Vernon; Judith Rose Hoffman of Greenwich, and Sandra Arline Swack, of West Salem.

Each of the children will present an essay on the general theme, "Youth Views Contemporary Jewish Life." The program will open with piano numbers by Mrs. Margaret Hall, and invocation by Rabbi David J. Rub, associate pastor of the B'nai Jacob congregation.

During the service, a cantata, "What is Torah?" will be presented in a choral reading by the 10 confirmands. The congregational choir will give vocal accompaniment and piano accompaniment will be by Mrs. Jerome Rosenberg. Both the charge and blessing to confirmands will be given by Rabbi Goldblum.

PRESENTS BIBLES

David S. Lapine, president of the congregation, will present Bibles and diplomas to members of the confirmation class.

Celebration of the Shavuos will start at 8 p. m., today with services. The observance will include services Sunday at 9:30 a. m. and special memorial rites Monday at 8 a. m.

Shavuos was the time when the people of Palestine would gather in Jerusalem and offer up the first fruits of their harvest as a token of thankfulness of God, Rabbi Goldblum said.

"The Festival of Weeks is so entitled because it takes place just seven weeks after the Passover holiday," Rabbi Goldblum explained. "In the history of the Jewish people, the Festival of Weeks also commemorates the giving of the Ten Commandments on Mt. Sinai. The holiday forever reminds us that man must live his life in accordance with the divinely inspired ideals of God.

"In these days of turmoil and strife, Shavuos does not permit us to forget that either the laws of might or the laws of selfishness can ever prove valid in regulating the affairs of man. It is only through God's justice and mercy and man's willingness to live according to His commandments that peace and security will be our eternal heritage."

Although the confirmation will be held at the Temple Emanuel, the other services of the festival will be held in the B'nai Jacob Temple, 50 Sturges avenue.

Nazarene Pastor, Daughter To Attend Church Assembly

Rev. A. H. Perry, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, will leave Wednesday for St. Louis, Mo., as delegate from the central Ohio district to the general assembly of the church.

Rev. Perry will be accompanied by his daughter, Miss Hazel Perry. She will be a delegate for the Nazarene Young People's society from the same district.

Sessions for both general assembly and the NYPS will be held in the Metropolitan auditorium. The assembly meetings will start June 20 and continue through June 28. The young people's meetings will be held June 17 to 19.

Rev. Perry will serve on the committees for the election of superintendents for the general church and for home missions. Since the last general assembly, three superintendents have died. Rev. Perry said he thought four or five new ones might be chosen at this meeting.

The Church of the Nazarene will mark its 40th anniversary during the assembly. Today, it has a membership enrollment of more than 200,000 persons, Rev. Perry said.

During Rev. Perry's absence, Rev. Curtis L. Powell will fill the pulpit at the Mansfield church. Rev. Powell is a student at the Nazarene college at Olivet, Ill.

Hull Lists Highlights Of Busy Life

Secretary's Memoirs At City Library

Heading the list of new nonfiction at the Mansfield Public Library is THE MEMOIRS OF CORDELL HULL, the eagerly-awaited autobiography of a man who has lived in center of momentous happenings.

It begins with Hull's childhood in Tennessee and closes with his retirement as secretary of state. The final section deals with the monumental happenings in the state department after 1939, including a step-by-step analysis of the negotiations with Japan leading up to Pearl Harbor. There are many revelations of first importance about facts and forces in America's wartime foreign policy.

THE FIRST FRONTIER, by R. V. Coleman, is a panoramic account of the settlement and exploration of America. It is pleasantly written and chronicles all the explorations and settlements of the Atlantic seaboard from 1942 to 1664. It is enlivened by entertaining details of personal behavior culled from early court records.

UNTO THE LEAST OF THESE, by Octavia Lundberg, was presented to the library by Mrs. W. R. Tappan as a memorial to Miss Alberta Harris. The book explains the present status of social service work for children and gives suggestions for its extension and improvement. It contains 20 biographical sketches of personalities in the field.

Other non-fiction includes I'VE SHED MY TEARS, by Karaka; I HAVE TWO COUNTRIES, by Ojike; SUOTH AMERICA CALLED THEM, by Von Hagen; 1,000 AMERICANS, by Seldes; A MODERN LAW OF NATIONS, by Jessup; A FIRE WAS LIGHTED, by Maynard; A CABIN IN THE HILLS, by Bosworth.

THE FOOLISH GENTLEWOMAN, by Margery Sharp, is an amusing novel of a delightful but eccentric widow who lived at Chipping Hill, eight miles from London. The story takes place during a June weekend in 1946, when Isabel Bracken, "the foolish gentlewoman," completely upsets her family by announcing that she intends to leave her fortune to a distant cousin, whom she had slighted as a child. This is good summer reading.

MY UNCLE JAN by Joseph Auslander and Audrey Wurdemann, is a captivating novel about Jan Horak and his Czech community in Wisconsin some forty years ago. Uncle Jan had a flair for getting on in life and for getting into hot water. He becomes involved in a pleasant succession of humorous adventures set against the background of a small American town that still clung to many Old World customs.

THE PROFESSOR'S UMBRELLA is a novel of campus life by Mary Jane Ward, author of THE SNAKE PIT. Its plot centers around a young Jewish professor in a midwestern college. It is a briskly written and generally convincing story of still one more area in which the gentlemen's agreement operates and threatens American democracy.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

PAGE FOUR — MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, JUNE 12, 1948

Drive carefully tomorrow—and remember that the old car deserves a checkup.

Close inspection reveals that a considerable number of "white collars" are becoming rather badly frayed.

According to a U. S. milk inspector, the cow will, in time, disappear from American farms—an idea that is encouraged, perhaps, by the price of steaks climbing to above a dollar a pound.

Party Lines Finally Decide Time Issue

SO MANSFIELD is to have "fast" time for awhile—by decision of city council on a strictly party vote, with the five Republican members voting to set timepieces ahead and the four Democrats favoring retention of present "slow" time—which, by the way, is legal time in Ohio, with requirement that county offices continue as at present and that the court house clock remain unchanged.

Just how this came to be jockeyed into a political issue is not explained, although it presents the idea that—carried to an extreme—Republicans might set their timepieces ahead while Democrats leave theirs as they are . . . thus adding a nice touch of confusion to what will, at the best, be a complicated situation.

Diplomacy is evidenced by Mayor Vaughn in side-stepping any participation in the controversy by announcing intention to neither sign nor veto the ordinance, thus permitting it to become law at the end of ten days.

Plans are proceeding, however, to submit the time issue to Mansfield voters at the November election, in the form of a referendum on the ordinance as passed—so the subject is still open for discussion.

Installment Buying Reaches New High

EXTENT to which many people are "skating on thin ice" is forcefully impressed by a recent Federal Reserve Board survey which indicates that one out of every four American families will overspend its income "heavily" this year.

This revelation is in association with a report that installment credit for retail buying reached the highest point in history during the six months following removal of time payment controls last November.

During the first six months of unrestricted time payments, credit for buying automobiles on the installment plan went up $71,000,000 a month, to a May 1 total of $1,476,000,000—and credit specialists believe debt for car purchases will jump even faster as more new cars are produced.

Those who bought goods on credit last year, figures reveal, doubled the number in the year before, and it is estimated that three million more families reached the verge of debt stage by cashing their last savings bonds.

With automobiles now at approximately double former prices, and with production still falling far short of demand, cash payment for a new car is beyond the means of the considerable number of persons whose income has not kept pace with advancing costs and resort to installment payments appears as the only solution if there is desperate requirement for private transportation.

There will be need for caution, however, in over-extension of credit buying, else the unavoidable deflationary period that is bound to follow this inflationary upheaval will be disastrous to many who find that "easy" is not the proper word to describe a multiplicity of monthly payments.

Mansfield to Have Policewoman

COME JULY 1, Mansfield will join the increasing number of cities that have one or more policewomen—which sounds like a very good idea, for there is a recognized need for the service of a woman in some of the cases that come to the attention of the police department in such a city as Mansfield.

And, judging from the early training, experience and apparently serious attitude toward her new position, Miss Marilyn Craven seems like an excellent choice for the work, especially if she follows through in her interest in a career which, as she said, "will let me be of service to mankind."

There will be hope, as Miss Craven enters upon her new duties, that she will not be disillusioned—as some have been—by experiences which reveal the clash between idealism and realism in the operation of a police department, and that she may—as she hopes—"help make our city better."

Best wishes, Miss Craven, for your success in what will be an interesting but difficult, and at times disagreeable, job.

European Tours for Teachers

IT HAS long been the custom, in periods free from war, for teachers and students to spend one or more summers in Europe, with the idea of broadening their knowledge and providing background material for their profession.

This summer will see an influx of serious-minded teachers and future teachers into the fields and factories, as well as the schools and museums, of Europe. Of these travelers, 300 will be sponsored by the University of Vermont, the United States department of state, and the New York City board of education.

Credits will be given by the university for this trip, which will include lectures and seminars at European universities, but the students will also come in contact with the ordinary people of the countries they visit, and will observe the effects of the war on the lives of the inhabitants. They will learn of the proposed applications of aid under the Marshall Plan, and will be expected to make detailed reports of their observations.

The advantages to these teachers and to their pupils of such a project are obvious. The 300 who have had the privilege of getting such a comprehensive survey of European conditions will provide a leaven of intelligent opinion which should help in the growth of an enlightened foreign policy.

If a presidential candidate found a way to ensure quick delivery of new cars at moderate prices, he would not need to campaign. His election would be the greatest landslide yet known.

What Some Other People Are Saying

JOHN L. LEWIS, president of the United Mine Workers: "The mine operators are obviously killing time trying to create a crisis. The industry's 'stay on the job' suggestion would not be satisfactory to the men who go down into the mines to dig coal."

* * *

GOV. EARL WARREN (R) Cal.: "I am disappointed because Congress has not enacted universal military training. . . . UMT offers us a permanent defense, and selective service only a temporary one. Defense is a permanent problem."

* * *

PAUL G. HOFFMAN, ERP administrator: "The proposed cuts in the European aid funds will slow down the program, hamper peace and cause great damage. . . . There is a great sense of urgency in getting on with the job."

Raymond Moley's Analysis

Byrd's Deficit Estimate Pessimistic

THE FISCAL estimates of Sen. Harry F. Byrd, presented in a forceful speech several weeks ago, have had an important effect on thoughtful people throughout the country.

His rather grim warnings of future deficits come at a good time. Republicans in Congress and Democrats in the administration are vying with each other for the credit of a balanced budget. Neither party is eager to disturb the serenity of the picture. But the taxpayer is entitled to know the truth, even in an election year.

Byrd says that in the fiscal year beginning next month we shall not have a surplus, but a deficit of $3,800,000,000. He bases this assumption on the belief that our total expenditures in the next fiscal year will be $43,800,000,000, of which $7,225,000,000 will be for foreign commitments and $13,200,000,000 for defense.

Some competent economists, however, question Byrd's deficit estimate, not because of any fault in his estimates of expenditures, but because, for one thing receipts from taxation may be higher than he anticipates.

Federal income runs with national income: national income, up to a point we have not yet reached, runs with rising prices. Considering the probable slow increase in prices in most lines for some months to come, it is fair to estimate that national income over the next fiscal year will be $220,000,000,000, as against slightly over $200,000,000,000 for the year now ending.

Federal revenue in the present year, after tax reduction, will come to about $42,700,000,000. But with additional national income, we may expect next year to have $44,500,000,000, which would balance the budget estimates of Senator Byrd.

* * *

Prompt Action Needed.

THERE are other considerations which may brighten the picture. Since the greatest stumbling block ahead of budget-balancing is the armament program, anything that helps our relations with Russia will help our finances.

The great war scare, so notable in the Pentagon Building some months ago, is declining perceptibly. Therefore, there is a hope—though only a hope—that Byrd's forecasts may be brightened considerably a year hence.

Another point bears on our estimated allotments for European relief. Reports are pouring in that European crops are much better than our government anticipated when asking for appropriations.

It is fair to ask whether the original estimates are untouchable, if better conditions should prevail in Europe. Here, there may be a real prospect of a reduction.

All speculation, however, depends on the fortunes of politics. If, as is to be hoped, a man is nominated and elected who has the energy and administrative ability to tackle the budget at the very outset of his administration, there certainly will be no need for a deficit. But his best work must be done immediately after his inauguration.

We learned in Harding's first year that only a new broom can sweep clean. Budget Director Charles G. Dawes did the sweeping then. Now we need not only a new, vigorous President, but a 1949 edition of Dawes.

Truman In Difficult Role

By THOMAS L. STOKES

ABOARD President Truman's Special Train—On his transcontinental tour in which President Truman is, in effect, making his first personal appearance before the people, he is somewhat like the new leading man who is making his debut under the merciless gaze of the critics.

So important for him and his political future has this journey over America been made that his every word and gesture is under closest scrutiny.

It is duly described in feverishly written dispatches dropped off the train at every stop to make the next edition. In this dizzy panorama the complete picture can be lost in the fog of dots and dashes, since the incident of the moment may be overemphasized beyond its importance, including the blunders; and this trip has its quota like all such enterprises.

It is possible now, after several days, to get some perspective.

Over-all, the impression is one of a friendly man visiting among friendly people. Everywhere along the route there has been this cordial relationship between the President and citizens of all sorts.

Nowhere has anybody gone into anything like the frenzies of enthusiasm that, for instance, greeted the late Franklin D. Roosevelt at the peak of his career when he was the symbol of hope for a people suffering from depression. But the men are different and the times are different.

Nobody now is looking for a deliverer, and Harry Truman would not fit such a role if they were. Being the sort of man he is, he would not even try it.

There was an incident early in the trip, widely publicized and discussed, that came at the strategically wrong time and served to color the whole adventure, and with an exaggerated dark hue.

This was most dramatically exhibited by news photos showing 2,000 people huddled down in front of an auditorium at Omaha that holds 10,000 people and, in the background on the stage, the lonesome figure of the President making a speech. This was particularly disappointing to him because of the tremendous reception he had received all day long in the strongly Republican city. Explanations, some of them with substance, still did not erase the picture of such an audience for a President of the United States.

* * *

Reflects Internal Strife.

BUT this incident, of itself, served as a symbol and an explanation of something else that became more apparent as the trip progressed.

In the Omaha incident, among other things, was political mismanagement, the failure of staff work all along the line.

Filling a hall for a President of the United States should be elementary, no matter what the handicaps. This incident revealed initially the political ineptitude frequently displayed by the administration and, beyond that, as the facts came out, the back-biting and feuding in a local organization that is duplicated elsewhere. Like a disease, it infects the whole Democratic national organization and makes it weak and feeble, as of this time.

For Nebraska is not an isolated incident. There the party organization split involves personalities to some extent and also a conflict between progressives and conservatives. In Illinois the Chicago city machine is dissatisfied and straining at the leash. Boss Jake Arvey, Ed Kelly's successor as chairman of the Cook county Democratic committee, who is desirous of dumping President Truman as the party's nominee, apparently is still unappeased after the Truman visit and accompanying peace overtures. In Idaho, likewise, there is a party split.

On this trip, the inter-party dissension is complicated by the insistence of the Truman contingent that this tour is "nonpolitical."

The upshot is that the state political leaders have not been given the part in making arrangements to which they think they are entitled and to which, of course, they are entitled.

At this stage the President's trouble is less with the people than with the politicians. But unless he can show more strength with the people as the campaign progresses, then the politicians won't be persuaded to bury their differences. They can't be too much help in their present state of mind.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Congress Splits On European Aid Funds

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

TO MANY Europeans, American politics always has been a puzzle. It became a particularly painful one to them this week when Congress, which two months ago approved the Marshall plan for European recovery, again debated foreign aid.

This time, however, it's not a question of "if" but "how much."

It's all due to the difference between two important words: authorize and appropriate.

When Congress passes a bill authorizing the spending of money, it commits itself only to the principle that the idea is all right. Authorized money can be spent only after Congress passes another bill appropriating it, which really is writing the check.

Congress is free to change its mind between the time it authorizes something and finally gets around to appropriating money for it. It may wind up appropriating less than it originally authorized.

Early this spring Congress authorized spending $5,300,000,000 on ERP over 12 months. Last week the House—which previously had voted with the Senate for $5,300,000,000—voted to appropriate only $4,000,000,000 for 12 months.

Action by Senate.

That however was not final. The Senate still had to act. Secretary Marshall, the author of the plan, said the House cuts would change ERP "from reconstruction to mere relief."

Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) took charge of the fight to have the Senate rescue ERP from the House slashes. The foremost exponent of a bipartisan approach to foreign problems appeared personally before the Senate appropriations committee.

He argued that this country is likely to lose the cold war against communism in Europe if Congress fails to vote the full amount it authorized in setting up the recovery program.

All foreign spending—including occupation and other costs in Germany, Japan and elsewhere—are lumped in the bill which cleared the House carrying $5,980,000,000. The administration had asked for $6,533,000,000.

The House argued that European food production will be higher than expected and that American resources need to be protected against excessive exports.

At Home

Crisis on Columbia River.

The sun was hot this week in the Canadian Rockies and the snow fields melted faster than usual. That was bad news for hundreds of thousands of Columbia Valley residents, almost punch-drunk after a three-weeks' fight against the raging river and its tributaries.

It meant a third flood was forming in the headwaters of the Columbia. It meant another crest—perhaps the highest yet. It meant, at best, that high waters would continue for two weeks more, according to Elmer Fisher, federal river forecaster.

The Army rushed in a fresh engineering field command in the battle against the river. Twenty-six officers were flown from Fort Belvoir, Va.

* * *

By Court Order.

John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers—by court order—resumed negotiations this week with coal operators for a new contract by July 1. That deadline is important since the miners traditionally adopt the policy of "no contract—no work."

But burly John L., unlike the balky horse led to water, went through the required motions. Whether he really came to bargain on the new contract or not, a coal-thirsty industry would have to wait to find out. The first signs were ominous.

Lewis said he was attending the meeting only through duress.

"Free collective bargaining," he snorted, twisting in his chair. "You have reduced the words to mockery."

* * *

Inflation and You.

Prices of many things you use went up in the past week and there are predictions of more rises to come.

Factors providing new nourishment for inflation are numerous and in some cases powerful. According to economists they include:

Huge federal appropriations for European recovery and domestic rearmament.

Steadily rising employment creating new demands for goods and services.

New wage increases adding to the money supply.

Lower federal income taxes and the treasury's hold-the-line policy on short term interest rates.

* * *

Graduates In Demand.

American industry is bidding for trained minds and personnel officers of the big corporations have beaten a path this spring to colleges and universities.

June graduates are in strong demand, reports Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics. Most of them will have a good deal of choice as to jobs, particularly engineers, chemists, pharmacists, nurses, social workers and librarians.

He advises high school graduates that there are better employment prospects in such fields as building, metal trades and railroading than in such "glamor" industries as plastics and aviation.

Abroad

Truce In Palestine.

Arabs and Jews announced unconditional acceptance of a four weeks' "truce" which started yesterday. The agreement was the work of Count Folke Bernadotte, the United Nations' mediator.

But he still had the job of trying to make it effective. And if he could keep shooting to a minimum, there was still a task of working out permanent peace terms that would stick.

* * *

Another Disagreement.

The six-power decision to set up a separate western German state, in the face of certain Russian opposition, brings the cold war into clear, hard focus.

Observers in Washington say frankly that of all the points where Soviet and American policies are in conflict, the one in Germany is by far the most dangerous. Not only because Germany is essential to the success of the Marshall plan, but because if Germany fell to the Russians, all Europe could not be far behind.

They are convinced the Kremlin is just as determined to dominate all Germany as the western world is to keep her from it.

The best way, of course, to solve the German problem would be the way originally planned at Potsdam—with Russia, America, Britain and France acting jointly. But two years of effort long that line has only hardened and widened the split between east and west.

* * *

"New Look" and Old.

There is a new look this week in Czechoslovakia.

Ill and exhausted, Eduard Benes, 64, resigned as president of the republic although his term had five years to run. He stepped down without signing the new constitution drafted by the communist-purged parliament set up in the February coup.

His resignation took out of the government the last strong link that Czechoslovakia, founded with American support after World War 1, had with western democracies.

The resignation followed by eight days the new regime's "victory" in the one-party election in which a huge but undisclosed number of Czechs cast blank protest ballots.

Quotes

Dr. Jan. Papanek, former Czechoslovak delegate to the United Nations: "Between decency and the Communistic way, there is no compromise."

Dwight D. Eisenhower, new president of Columbia, has 15 degrees. By Act of Congress, he will remain a five-star general of the Army for life. Asked by what title he would like to be known, he said: "So long as I live, I shall most readily answer to the name of 'Ike.'"

In Short

Crashed: One of the U. S. Air Force's new Flying Wing jet bombers, into the California desert, killing its crew of five.

Upheld: By the Supreme Court, validity of Florida and Nevada "quick" divorces.

Chosen: By the U. S. Navy, Tinian, wartime B-29 base, as the site of a leper colony for Pacific Island natives.

Announced: By Buckingham Palace, no public engagements after June for Princess Elizabeth; court circles intimate she expects a baby in October or November.

Proclaimed: By France, a central provisional Viet Nam government aboard a French warship off Indo-china; the new regime promptly was called a "puppet government" by the Viet Nam Republic.

Farmer's Diary

Observing Bird Mimics

By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE mocking bird is associated in our minds with the South. Florida orange groves, Georgia pine forests, and mango trees furnish the background we expect to find. But here in mid-Ohio we have several birds that mimic a host of others.

Near our house, recently, I heard a bird voice that made our house cat jump with surprise—as if she wondered what feline could be dressed in dark slate feathers, and taunting her from the apple tree. It was a catbird, of course, hidden among the leaves. All during the summer—more often in the morning—he will call out a long repartee, mocking gleefully several song birds. The phoebe and the wren, for two. I saw stop feeding their young long enough to listen to him, perched on the edge of their nests.

Sometimes a robin will pour forth its evening song in mockery of a thrush, the twittering swallow, lark or killdeer. But I guess the most determined mimic and the worst, is the shrike. I walked past a tall elm in Honey Creek basin two days ago. On the topmost tip was perched a bird of strange color, and concealed among the leaves was another with white and dark feathers, and a strong pointed beak. Standing by, I heard a robin's note, a chicadee, a songsparrow trilling, and a poor attempt to reproduce the voice of a mountain dove.

Other birds when they recognize their familiar note, will come close, not knowing the shrike for a killer. The fierce shrike will attack the smaller bird and having killed it, impale it upon a thorn bush, along with the grasshoppers, mice, or other birds.

As a boy, we used to call them "nine killers"—since we were told that they never stopped until nine specimens were pinned up on thorns in the "Bluebeard's gallery."

This Honey Creek shrike, however, had only four specimens—a locust, a grasshopper, a scarlet tanager, and a jumping mouse. Partially eaten, these were left to rot upon the thorn tree. The bright coat of the tanager was like a red flag of danger or a splash of blood.

These are among the fiercest birds found anywhere, and do not hesitate to attack any other bird regardless of size. During the summer, the parents move about with their young. Both parents can sing beautifully, when they choose. They have been known to attack caged birds and when the pets are frightened and thrust out their heads, the shrikes tear the heads off and pin them up in the thorn tree.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

THE PRESIDENT'S charge of inactivity in Congress brought quick action . . . the House passed 136 bills in thre hours and even knew what some of them were.

* * *

Congress passed an anti-nematode bill and three committees for "civil rights for nematodes" were organized before anyone learned that nematodes are potato worms.

* * *

Plans for a protest march on Washington were then suspended until the nematodes can prove they can deliver the vote.

* * *

But action on the nematode peril was just in time . . . We are faced with another potato surplus and there was danger the nematodes might beat the government to destroying the crop.

* * *

Under the law the government keeps the price of potatoes up while bewailing the fact that food prices do not come down . . . This is what is known as the "ever-normal-lunacy" policy.

Timely Editorial

Political Spoils.

The Senate postoffice committee is holding up confirmation of President Truman's appointments of 1,033 postmasters so that, if a Republican wins the presidency this year, new appointments can be made by him.

It shows how politics and not qualifications determines who shall have the best jobs in the postal service.

Since civil service rules do not apply to first-class postmasters at all, and only nominally to the others, this is the usual practice when as a President's term is ending, the party opposed to him controls the Senate.

Hung on the line—spoils to fight for—1,033 jobs!

This GOP action ought to be accompanied by preparations to place all postmasterships under civil service—open to men and women who have proved their fitness in minor postal positions. — Detroit News.

Boy Lives On Borrowed Blood— But His Courage Is His Own

NEW YORK—(AP)—Louis is a twelve-year-old boy who lives on borrowed blood but never asked anybody to lend him any courage.

Looking up at a doctor in the Kings County hospital giving him his four-hundredth blood transfusion, Louis said cheerfully:

"I sure get tired of coming to the hospital all the time. But one of these days I'll get over this, and I won't have to come back again."

He doesn't know the odds against him. He doesn't know that all victims of his strange malady must keep periodically refueling themselves with other people's blood—or die.

At seven months Louis was stricken with Cooley's anemia, a rare disease which strikes chiefly among children of Mediterranean descent. Until recent years, the small victims of his obscure ailment simply weakened progressively until death took them. There was no cure. There is no cure. But it was found they could be kept alive by repeated transfusions.

How long? Louis is one of the children who is living that answer.

Since his seventh month the body has existed only by the borrowed vigor tapped from the veins of his father and strangers he has never seen. He began by taking a fifth of a pint at each transfusion. Now every few weeks he needs four pints. Later he may require even more.

As he lay on a bed in the Kings county hospital receiving his 204th pint of blood, Louis joked with the nurses. He didn't look ill. He is a little undersized, but his brown eyes sparkled, and he talked gaily of how soon he could give the hospital back its peppermint-striped pajamas and go for a trip to the country.

"I used to get the blood from my father," Louis confided. "He'd bring me here and he'd give as much blood as they'd let him."

"That's right," said Dr. Harvey Gollance, deputy medical superintendent, "his father literally would bleed himself white for the boy."

Now the blood is provided by the American Red Cross, which collects it in Brooklyn and other areas for patients such as Louis.

"It is always possible that someone will discover a cure," said Dr. Gollance. "Not too long ago we'd have had to give Louis up for lost in his infancy. But now we can keep him alive for many years, as long as we have the blood to give him. And he can lead a reasonably normal life. But he'll have to keep coming back for transfusions as long as he lives."

★

The doctor spoke too low for Louis to hear. The boy was impatient to leave.

"I like to work on the farm in the country," he said. "I like to plant things and take care of horses. But when I grow up I'm going to be a baseball player. Like Joe DiMaggio. I play in the outfield myself."

Novice Learns That Criticism Sometimes Benefits An Actor

MAN ABOUT TOWN—John Barrymore once consoled a young newcomer, who was in tears over the critics' reviews. "It's easy for you to talk," sighed the novice. "The critics' raves made you a star."

"Yes, I know," said Barrymore, "and their bad notices made me an actor."

He is egotistical, observes Shamus O'Slattery, who believes all criticism leveled at him is the voice of envy.

Crosby notified his city desk, and a front page was prepared reporting Lonergan's confession. It was held "for release."

Aeronautics Pupils Win Plane Rides

By NITA BRANSON

Three members of this year's graduating class of Mansfield Senior high school are going out into the world with a greater appreciation and love of aeronautics and the possibility of some day becoming expert pilots because of a course they took while in high school last year.

The air enthusiasts are Ernie Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Roberts, 286 East First street; Robert Wadsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Wadsworth, 375 Ruth avenue, and Jim Gandert, son of Mrs. Della Gandert, 94 Ausdale avenue.

The boys were among the 11 who studied pre-aeronautics under Ralph Juniper at Senior high last year. They won top honors in the class and received a free plane ride at the Mansfield Airport as guests of Clay-Tschantz, manager.

Winning first honors, Ernie got 30 minutes in an Ercoupe and the same length of time in a Cessna. Bob was taken up for 30 minutes in an Ercoupe as a reward for second honors, and Jim's third honors won for him 15 minutes in an Ercoupe.

Each of them was allowed to take the controls during their flights with Tschantz. Bob was given the extra privilege of landing. Bob's enthusiasm for aeronautics is shared by his father who is taking lessons and both hope that some day soon they'll have their own plane.

SURPRISED HIM

"I was amazed when I got in and Mr. Tschantz told me to move over," Ernie said. "I had no idea he'd let me pilot. But it was sure swell. I'm going to take pilot training as soon as I can and I certainly hope that one of these days I can own my own plane."

Jim is more interested in the navigation angle than in becoming a pilot.

Navigation and meteorology were stressed most in Juniper's class. A government-licensed ground instructor, Juniper holds a private pilot's license. The instruction course was the inspection of planes at the airport and the studying of engines.

While none of the three boys is considering entering the Air Force as a career, the boys probably will remain interested in aeronautics as a part-time hobby, particularly if they later learn to fly.

Ernie is going to Fenn college, Cleveland, next fall to take up mechanical engineering. What he learned about engines will be a big help, he thinks.

Bob will enter Miami university at Oxford for a course in business administration.

Jim's plans are a little indefinite but he, too, has his eye on more schooling. If entrance can be arranged for next fall, his choice also will be a business administration course.

Legislators Stay On Job

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Tax, tariff, farm and social security legislation had Congress working overtime today in its drive for adjournment one week from tonight.

The lawmakers want to clear the decks for final action next week on a draft bill, a housing measure and a wide assortment of odds and ends threatening a last-minute jam that might force their return after the political conventions.

The House set an unusual Saturday session to debate, and pass if possible, bills dealing with taxation, farm prices and social security.

The Senate was expected to spend all day debating a House-passed bill to extend the reciprocal trade act until June 30, 1949. The administration has asked a three-year extension of the tariff law that expires at midnight tonight.

Another measure facing a renewal deadline in the House would continue the present farm price support program, in modified form, until June 30, 1950.

Most of the major agricultural products would be backed by the government up to 90 per cent of parity. (Parity is a system which attempts to set fair prices for both farmers and consumers.)

A tax revision measure, involving an estimated $400,000,000, also was before the House. It does not provide any general reductions, but is intended, Rep. Knutson (R-Minn) said, "to get the bugs and inequities out of the tax statutes."

Bid Deadline Extended

Church Postpones Contract Letting

The time for the receiving bids for the construction of the new First Congregational church home has been extended indefinitely, H. B. Soulen, chairman of the building committee said today.

The time limit was placed last week as June 10 but because of construction difficulties, the date for the closing of bids has been postponed, Soulen said.

As soon as all bids are in, and have been examined and discussed by building committee members, a date will be set for a congregational meeting. At that meeting the bids received will be presented and the congregation will make the final decision, Soulen said.

The new church will be erected at the northwest corner of Marion avenue and Millsboro road. Original cost estimate was placed at $300,000.

PLANTING ADVICE—

Three west side youngsters who put in a garden this year for the first time were greatly disturbed yesterday. They noticed their bean seeds had appeared above ground. They didn't know that this is the manner in which beans grow, the plant taking root, pushing the bean itself upward.

The mother of one of the gardeners was called for consultation. She looked at the beans, and quickly solved the problem.

"Obviously, you didn't plant them deep enough," she advised.

So the young gardeners carefully covered dirt over the beans.

City to Receive Its Safety Award

There'll soon be a shiny new award to hang up in the city building. A communication from the state traffic safety committee today notified Roy W. Vaughn that the award for Mansfield's first place in the 25,000 to 50,000 population class in traffic safety is ready for presentation and asked the mayor to name the place and date.

Mayor Vaughn said he wasn't sure whether the presentation will be made in Columbus or Mansfield.

Mansfield Taverns Entered

Trio Flees Transfer Office

Burglars had a busy, but unproductive time of it early this morning.

They broke into three Mansfield business establishments but only got $2 in pennies and five cartons of cigarets for their efforts.

The most persistent burglars broke into the Orange Street cafe, 328 Orange street, and got the cigarets. They made two unsuccessful attempts before they succeeded.

Police investigation revealed that they broke a pane of glass on the front door, near the knob but found the door locked from the inside.

They went around to the rear of the cafe and broke a pane of glass in a door but found that the door there also locked from the inside.

UNLATCH WINDOW

Not easily discouraged, they finally gained entrance by breaking a window pane and unlatching the window. The burglary occurred shortly after 4:15 a. m., police said.

Earlier in the evening police, on routine patrol, discovered a broken window at the East Side night club, 275 Orange street. The burglars removed a screen, broke a window and unlatched it, officers said. They took $2 in pennies from a cash drawer.

The burglars who broke into the Frank Williams Transfer and Storage company weren't so successful. They were surprised by a driver, Albert Mills, Mansfield, R. D. 4, who returning from a job, saw three men fleeing from the rear of the establishment as he walked in the front door.

The police had a scare at 11:30 last night when the burglar alarm at the Farmers Savings and Trust bank started to ring. Investigation failed to reveal any attempt to gain entry.

Yesterday after noon, Walter Singer, proprietor of the frozen custard stand at North Lake Park, reported that someone had tried unsuccessfully to pry off the door of his shop. He said the thieves took six electric light bulbs from outside the building.

Sky Club Closes Today

The dining room at the Sky club, Mansfield Airport restaurant, will close tonight, with the last meal served at 8 p. m., members of the board of directors announced.

The grill will remain open, but plans for any future reopening of the dining room, are indefinite, board members said.

All engagements for dinner parties and dances have been canceled, the board said. The last dance will be a Colony club party tonight.

The Sky club was opened shortly before the dedication of the Mansfield airport in July, 1946.

Reds Develop Speedy Plane

LONDON — (AP) — The Daily Mail said today the Russians have developed an experimental jet plane with a "top speed approaching 760 miles an hour."

That is only three miles under the speed of sound under standard conditions—at sea level and 59 degrees Fahrenheit. It is above the speed of sound at high altitudes and lower temperatures.

"Intelligence reports," the Mail said, show "Russia's jet-propelled warplanes already number several hundreds, and that the rate of production is being stepped up."

Bond Purchase Dates Announced

Mansfield insurance firms, savings and loan companies, fraternal organizations, credit unions, and pension and retirement funds will have a 15-day chance to increase their investment in F and G U. S. Savings bonds between July 1 and 15.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder announced that for this period the $100,000 limit on purchases would be waived permitting buying up to $1,000,000 for 1948. Commercial banks may buy an additional $100,000 worth of the bonds during this period.

Horoscope

For Sunday, June 13.

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of very lively and pleasant activities, with much of an intellectual, cultural, social, perhaps romantic nature, engaging the attention. Functions of pleasure and fun should wax merrily, providing they be kept within the bounds of good taste and reason, since there is also an augury of excess, excitement and friction for lack of restraint. Accidents, cuts, fires and loss may penalize any want of caution.

For the Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of opportunity with progress, change, new contracts or pleasant renewals, with adaptability and resourcefulness gladly recognized. The personal element is strong, and charm, beauty, culture and graciousness may be prudently utilized. However, there is a hint of excess, over-doing, antagonism, and tumult, with physical harm, hurts and accidents to be reckoned with for violations of consideration, good taste.

A child born on this day will have much versatility, intellect and acumen, with a gracious and affectionate personality. This might be negatived by turbulent emotions, quick temper or other extravagance or excesses, with consequent harm or penalties.

Cleveland Outslugs New Yorkers, 10 to 8

Today's Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK—(UP)—Swinging once again "for the kids," the big guy agreed today to step out of baseball's history book and come back to his ball yard—in uniform.

Babe Ruth, to most youngsters a living legend in a camel's hair coat, will shuck the garments of retirement briefly on Sunday. And as the New York Yankees celebrate their 25th anniversary in the house that Ruth built the bambino himself will slip once again into the familiar flannels bearing the famed "3" on the back.

Five men have worn that number since the Babe left the club in 1934. They were good men—George Selkirk, Bud Metheny, Joe Medwick, Allie Clark and Cliff Mapes—but nobody could do anything but tarnish that numeral which glittered on the back of the burly Babe.

★

HE HAS THREE reasons for putting on his uniform again. One is that he will be the last to wear his number. The second is to rejoin in uniform members of that club which a quarter of a century ago stepped wonderingly into the gleaming new stadium and went on to win the team's first world championship.

Some of those men are gone, fine fellows like little Miller Huggins; Herb Pennock, the slender, courageous pitcher, and Outfielder Harvey Hendrick. But others will be back for a brief reunion with their big gun, guys like Wally Pipp, Joe Dugan, Bob Meusel, Whitey Witt, Wally Schang, Waite Hoyt, Bob Shawkey, Bullet Joe Bush and Sad Sam Jones.

And for an all-too-brief time they'll make one of the Babe's dreams come true. He'll sit in the dugout and manage those old time teammates in a game against other Yankeee stars of the past, managed by retired Ed Barrow, the man who gambled and converted Ruth from a splendid pitcher into the game's greatest hitter.

But to the Babe, his third reason for putting on that uniform once more is the greatest.

He wants the kids to see him in it.

★

AFTER THAT, the storied "3" never again will be seen on a Yankee diamond.

It will be sent to baseball's hall of fame museum in Cooperstown, N. Y., and there it will rest for other generations to see beside the Babe's glove, his shoes and the bat which thundered his record 60th homer in 1927.

Bpt the kids first are going to have something fresh, something of their own, to remember him by.

And youngsters of another era are going to be "kids" again for just a minute as the burly figure with the "3" on his back minces out there on the diamond!

Bob Feller Saves Game For Lemon

NEW YORK—(INS)—One down just two to go and the Cleveland Indians will be labeled prospective champs of 1948.

The experts were predicting a title for the team to win three of four in the current New York-Cleveland series. The Cleveland club is on its way.

The Tribe jumped to a five-run lead in the series opener last night at Yankee stadium, and then held on to edge the Yanks, 10-8, in a thrilling slugfest.

Once again it was Bob Lemon who hurled Cleveland to victory, his ninth of the year. But the Yanks touched the California kid for six hits and six runs in his six-inning stint and fireball ace Bob Feller finally was called on to halt the New Yorkers.

VIC DOESN'T LAST

Vic Raschi started for New York last night with a record of seven straight wins and a string of 22 scoreless innings. Before the first inning was over, his scoreless string was at an end. Before the end of the second frame, he was on his way to the showers.

Dale Mitchell, Eddie Robinson and Wally Judnich gave Cleveland a one-run lead in the first on three solid hits. In the second, 10 men went to the well and four came home before Karl Drews finally succeeded in retiring the side.

Kenny Keltner opened with a walk, and Joe Tipton struck out, but Lemon followed with a single. Mitchell singled and Edwards doubled to keep things going and Hank Edwards came home on Robinson's second hit of the evening. Judnich and Joe Gordon walked before Drews forced Keltner to fly to left.

The Yanks, meanwhile, went ahead in the fifth following a pair of three-run round-trippers by Yogi Berra and George McQuinn.

The Indians rebounded in the seventh, however, to sew up the victory with four more runs.

Tommy Byrne, the eventual loser, filled the bases in that frame before Fireman Joe Page was called in from the bullpen. Tipton greeted Page with a ringing double to left, cleaning the sacks. Mitchell's third single of the game scored Tipton.

Cleveland scored once more in the ninth on Bob Kennedy's triple and Lou Boudreau's single, but the Yanks still were fighting.

The fans already were scurrying for the exits in the ninth when Joe DiMaggio lofted a homer into the left-field stands. Gus Niarhos bunted safely and Bill Johnson walked, and by that time the fans were scurrying back toward the seats.

FANS LAST MAN

Bob Feller then trudged in from the bullpen to relieve Klieman, and McQuinn greeted him with a scratch single down the first base line. Phil Rizzuto walked, forcing in Niarhos, but Feller blazed a third strike past Sherman Lollar to end the contest.

New York used six pitchers and 18 players in an effort to win the game, while Cleveland sent four hurlers to the hill. The defeat dropped New York four games behind the Tribe and one game behind the second-place Athletics.

Today's doubleheader may well be the most important twin bill of the year for both clubs.

Wooster Lumbers Defeat Gorman-Rupp Nine, 2-0

WOOSTER—Mansfield Gorman-Rupp lost a tough 2-to-0 decision to the Wooster Lumbers of the Ohio Inter-City softball league here last night.

Gorman-Rupp had beaten Wooster earlier in the season, 7 to 4. It was the second defeat of the season for the Mansfield team which threatened only once last night. G-R loaded the sacks in the ninth inning with one away but Nick Weber and Tic Hamilton grounded out.

Jim "Stretch" Regula, former Mansfield Senior high baseball and basketball star, made his first start for the G-R team and was touched for seven hits. He fanned five. Pete Campbell got both of Mansfield's hits.

A walk, hit batsman, error and fielder's choice gave Wooster its first run in the fifth. Bob Spencer opened the seventh with a double and scored the second run on Swinheart's single.

Greystone 9 Seeks to Stop Lorain Streak

The undefeated Lorain all-stars will meet the young Greystone Nite club team in the feature game of a softball twin bill tonight at the Gorman-Rupp field.

The main go is listed for 8:30 while Johns park battles Cole's Tool and Dye in the preliminary test at 6:15 p. m.

Lorain has won eight straight this season and features the antics of the Costello brothers—Frank, John, Phil and Joe. The club won 37 of 43 games last year and copped the city title. Dulak and Skolnicki, who pitched several games for the Ashland Indians last year, are the all-star pitchers.

Greystone has added several players for tonight's battle. Curley Bratton, the former Lima South athlete, will pitch with Ralph Majors behind the platter. Bratton has been pitching for American Legion Post 72 this season.

Bud McFadden, Bob Konves and Dick Eccles will be in the outfield for Greystone while Bill Ryder, George Hummel, Connie Miragliotta and Carl Wharton are the infielders.

Triple Title In Grasp of Calumet Ace

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Citation, Calumet Farm's wonder horse which took the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness with ease, today will go after the $100,000 Belmont stakes, the final test in racing's triple crown.

A crowd of 60,000 is expected to jam majestic Belmont course to see if what every body says about the Calumet speedster is true.

Eight others, including Citation's stablemate, Coaltown, have been entered for the mile and one half test for three-year-olds.

OTHER ENTRIES

Others entered were Glen Riddle Farms' Faraway, W. L. Brann's Escadru, Belair Stud's Golden Light, A. J. Sackett's Gasparilla, C. V. Whitney's Vulcan's Forge, William Helis' Salmagundi, and King Ranch's Better Self.

Several factors will enter into the size of the field. Among them are the weather, which may be showery, track conditions and the presence of Coaltown. With nine in the race it would net the winner $78,700. Few expect Coaltown to start.

Jockey Eddie Arcaro, who rode Citation to victory in the Derby and Preakness will be seeking to become the first rider ever to have two triple crown horses. Arcaro won with Calumet's Whirlaway in 1941.

Snead Leads Open; Al Hager Bows Out

By RUSS NEWLAND

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Will hard luck continue to dog Sam Snead in the U. S. Open golf championship?

The final 36 holes of the big fairway derby got under way today and that question should be answered about the time dusk began setting in on the Riviera course.

Slammin' Sam, one of the longest hitters in the game, held a one stroke lead as he teed off for the third round. His 138 for 36 holes was compiled with a pair of 69s, making him three under par for the distance.

Misfortune has camped at his doorstep in the past.

His most famous "blow up" came in 1939 at Philadelphia. Snead took an 8 on the 72nd hole whereas a normal par 5 would have won him the title. At St. Louis last year, he missed a 30½ inch putt for the win, then lost to Lee Worsham in the playoff.

ONLY ONE BACK

Treading on his heels were PGA Champion Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and Bobby Locke of Johannesburg, South Africa. They had 139s. Little Jim Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., was nicely placed with a 71-69—140.

Defending Champion Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., was within striking distance with a 141. He had a 74 yesterday. Tied at the same count were the leading amateur and recently-crowned British amateur titleholder, Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O.; Jimmy Demaret of Houston; Charles Congdon of Tacoma, Wash., and George Schneiter of Ogden, Utah.

Toney Penna, Cincinnati; Herman Keiser, Akron, O., and Joe Kirkwood jr., Pacific Palisades, Calif., started today with even 142 behind them.

★

Mansfield's Al Hager was one of 114 golfers eliminated from the final 36 holes. Hager fired an 81 yesterday to go with his first round of 79. That gave him a score of 160 and a 148 was needed to stay in the competition.

Thoma and Mayer Lead Coolridge Loop With 33's

Pete Thoma and Pro Joe Mayer had a torrid duel in the Coolridge golf league last night.

When the firing ceased the two opponents had tied for medal honors with 33's. Nick Loris chipped in with an ever par 34 and Ed Blonston got a 35.

Braves Slide Into National Lead

By JACK HAND
(AP Sports Writer)

Long-suffering Boston fans have two winners to cheer today—the first place Braves and Ten Williams of the Red Sox.

Billy Southworth's Braves, a pre-season pennant pick of many experts, finally edged into the lead in the rough-and-tumble National league scramble by downing St. Louis last night, 7-3.

Williams puffed his batting average to .395 by driving in seven runs in the Red Sox' 12-4 romp over the Chicago White Sox. Even at this early date it is not difficult to picture a .400 season for the slim slugger.

The Braves' feat probably will attract the most attention for this well-balanced club was fifth a week ago. Then it started a winning streak that is still growing at six.

Ralph Hamner, a non-winner until yesterday, dropped New York out of the lead when he pitched the Chicago Cubs to a 3-1 victory. Allowing only six hits, three by Whitey Lockman, Hamner outpitched loser Andy Hansen.

Cincinnati's prize rookie, Herman Wehmeier, chalked up his fifth straight success with a five-hit job against Philadelphia, 12-1. Johnny Wyrostek led the 15-hit spree against his old teammates with two homers a double and single.

Leo Durocher was banished by Umpire Al Barlick before the ball game started in Pittsburgh but the Brooklyn Dodgers, nevertheless, went 13 innings to trim the Pirates, 3-2.

Cleveland drew first blood in its important four-game series with the New York Yankees by clubbing the world champs, 10-8, before 67,924 Yankee stadium customers.

Williams was the big gun for the surging Red Sox who have won seven of their last eight games. Ted doubled three times, driving in a pair with each blow, and received credit for a seventh RBI when he was walked with the bases loaded. Jack Kramer lasted all the way, although yielding 10 White Sox hits, to decision Frank Papish.

Frank Truthfulness Saves a People — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—I Samuel 1-15. By Alfred J. Buescher

Hannah, wife of Elkanah, prayed for a son and promised to consecrate him to the service of God, so when the child came, while he was still very young, Hannah took him to Eli the priest and left him there to minister to Eli.

The Lord came to Samuel and told him that Eli and his house would fall because of the wickedness of Eli's sons, and after that, all the people of Israel knew that Samuel was established to be a prophet of the Lord.

The children of Israel worshiped strange gods and Samuel rebuked them, saying if they would return to the Lord, He would have them from the Philistines, so they promised and Samuel prayed and the Lord saved them.

When Saul was king, anointed by Samuel with the Lord's blessing, he obeyed the Lord for a time, but when he disobeyed, Samuel told him the Lord was angry and had rejected him as king.

MEMORY VERSE—I Samuel 15:22.

Pope Honors Ex-Pastor

Friends here of Msgr. F. A. Schreiber, former pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church, will be interested to learn that he is one of five domestic prelates promoted to the high office of protonotary apostolic by Pope Pius XIII.

The honor was granted to five priests of the Cleveland diocese. Announcement of the promotions was made by Bishop Edward F. Hoban.

Msgr. Schreiber was pastor of the Mansfield church from 1898 to 1922, when he became pastor of St. Bernard's Catholic church in Akron, a post he still retains at the age of 87. He was named dean of Akron in April 1923, and a domestic prelate on June 3, 1925.

The office of protonotary apostolic carries with it some of the privileges granted the seven members of the Papal Chancery. The office was created in the 16th century to honor distinguished clerics and in 1905 Pope Pius X codified these privileges.

Outside Rome they may, with the consent of the bishop, celebrate pontifical Mass and vespers. It is the first time the Diocese of Cleveland has been honored with the appointment of five protonotaries among its clergy.
